

The book was found

Dishing Up® Virginia: 145 Recipes That Celebrate Colonial Traditions And Contemporary Flavors

Synopsis

From colonial traditions through contemporary flavors, you'll be amazed at the deliciously rich variety of Virginia's cuisine. Patrick Evans-Hylton presents 145 delectable recipes celebrating the state's oysters, blue crabs, peanuts, heirloom tomatoes, sweet potatoes, wine, and much more. Learn how to make Chesapeake Cioppino, Indian Butter Chicken, Black Cake, and scores of other regional delights. You'll soon be pairing Classic Southern Slaw with Pulled Pork BBQ or Virginia Fried Chicken.

Book Information

Series: Dishing Up®

Paperback: 288 pages

Publisher: Storey Publishing, LLC (April 9, 2013)

Language: English

ISBN-10: 1612120024

ISBN-13: 978-1612120027

Product Dimensions: 7.4 x 0.7 x 9.3 inches

Shipping Weight: 1.7 pounds (View shipping rates and policies)

Average Customer Review: 4.9 out of 5 stars See all reviews (61 customer reviews)

Best Sellers Rank: #310,465 in Books (See Top 100 in Books) #43 in Books > Cookbooks, Food & Wine > Regional & International > U.S. Regional > Middle Atlantic #274 in Books > Cookbooks, Food & Wine > Entertaining & Holidays > Seasonal #383 in Books > Cookbooks, Food & Wine > Regional & International > U.S. Regional > South

Customer Reviews

What I desire most when I purchase or collect a cookbook, is not only what it may have in the way of unusual or fun recipes, but most often I will buy it for how it will give me the zeitgeist of a particular region, or for what it tells me about the history of a community, or its people. How does a particular collection of recipes or reviews of a region's best restaurants, or businesses, represent any given place? How did they learn to cook, or how had they resource their foods. What treatment of a favorite recipe was carried on through a family, or best represents its past. In Patrick Evans-Hylton's cookbook, I find the best of both worlds, a great read, with new and old but all great recipes. The book is lovely, well researched, beautifully photographed. A compendium of people, places and delicious - "I'm going try that" recipes, all written in a casual and easy manner, like a friend giving you their favorite family recipe. Having lived in many of the various regions of Virginia, in this cookbook, I took particular enjoyment in seeing so many, of what I deemed my most favorite spots, or favorite people with whom I have enjoyed sharing their produce, or their talented kitchens. I now plan to use this cookbook as a sort of foodie road trip guide, I will use it to seek out many places yet to discover. It makes me very proud to live in such a beautiful state, and anyone who may wish to visit with our unique farmers, chefs, and businesses will find that this cookbook proves invaluable. And as Mr. Hylton states we understand it is exactly right that Virginia is where our American food culture and earliest food histories began. LeeAnne Tetrault, Powhatan, Virginia

This unassuming little paper back is a wonderful sleeper! The paper is thick and glossy - making splashes less likely to adhere. The quality of the photography and print exceeds any paperback I have seen. Really a shame it is not a hardback. Now the contents - jam packed with historical culinary information organized from the Eastern Shore westward. Traditional and modern recipes are interspersed with richly evocative vignettes about places and people, both past and here now. Oh, and the recipes - right out of my culinary heritage - from the seafood (clams, crabs, shrimp, shad roe, ray), peanuts, sweet potatoes and corn of the coast to the beef, lamb and apples of western reaches, this book is full of recipes ranging from colonial classics (in their original form and modernized) to modern selections from modern chefs - all easily made in a modern home kitchen. Eastern Shore Oyster Stew, Old School Crab Cakes with Cocktail Sauce (with its 8 buttery crackers), Corn Pudding and Brunswick Stew (with the inclusion of okra but no oddities like ketchup or BBQ sauce) are all exactly a my family has always made. Hayman Sweet Potato Bisque using the heirloom Eastern Shore Hayman white sweet potato (and suggesting the more readily available O'Henry) is a mainstay for big batch cooking and freezing in our home - we use the O'Henry sweet potatoes). Some of the modern recipes at first read seem a bit twee (Shad Roe with Lump Backfin Crabmeat - our roe was always pan fried in bacon grease and served with bacon, scrambled eggs and fresh biscuits)), but give them a chance, they are doable and impressive. Many of the modern recipes hail from distant places but that reflects waves of immigrants coming to Virginia. All in all, this book is far more than I expected and I recommend it heartily for personal use as well as gifting for people with a love of the great state of Virginia.

At first glance, I was struck by the connections Patrick Evans-Hylton made from the Tidewater Region's seafood cuisine, through the Piedmont's produce, to the Blue Ridge Mountain's wine country. I'm a multi-generational Virginian, but a thoroughly modern cook, I immediately appreciated the connections historically and regionally. I have all the old "receipts" and I'm always looking for new recipes to create and make my own. So now reading it from cover to cover, this book, so beautifully photographed, gives a tour of my friends and neighbors gardens, restaurants I love, and many more I now want to try. Proudly pleased with with the old traditions, this well researched roadtrip through Virginia's foodways is one for the road and for my own kitchen.

Dishing Up Virginia is a three-dimensional look at Virginia's food and foodways. It is much more than a collection of recipes. The author provides ample portions of Virginia's culinary history, and profiles of the people involved in its food culture. Just like the state itself, Virginia's food culture is varied, from its ham and peanut industries to the seafood of the Chesapeake Bay. The state is then, appropriately, divided into regions, all of which are well represented here. And, importantly, the book's layout and photography are top-notch. The writing is good, and concise, and the book is tightly edited. It's really a beautiful cookbook, and comprehensive, all of which makes its low price rather hard to believe. The organization I work for hosted a book signing, and most who purchased it bought multiple copies.

Patrick Evans-Hylton has done an amazing job with this cookbook. When it arrived, I browsed through it and saw several divine sounding recipes that I'd like to try. Unfortunately, I haven't seen the book since; my husband grabbed it and won't give it back...I hear him ooh'ing and aah'ing, even drooling! So I highly recommend this as a gift for the man in your life. More than just a cookbook, it's full of interesting tidbits...will satisfy any cookbook lover. I guess I will just have to buy my own personal copy!

Download to continue reading...

Dishing Up® Virginia: 145 Recipes That Celebrate Colonial Traditions and Contemporary Flavors
Dishing Up® Oregon: 145 Recipes That Celebrate Farm-to-Table Flavors
Dishing Up Maine: 165 Recipes That Capture Authentic Down East Flavors
The Northwest Vegetarian Cookbook: 200 Recipes That Celebrate the Flavors of Oregon and Washington
Preserving Italy: Canning, Curing, Infusing, and Bottling Italian Flavors and Traditions
Independence Day / Dia de la Independencia (Little Jamie Books: Celebrate With Me) (Spanish Edition) (Little Jamie Books: Celebrate with Me/Celebro Conmigo)
It's Winter! (Celebrate the Seasons!) (Celebrate the Seasons! (Paperback))
Traditional Gospel: E-Z Play Today Volume 145
The Joy of Jams, Jellies, and Other Sweet Preserves: 200 Classic and Contemporary Recipes Showcasing the Fabulous Flavors of Fresh Fruits
A Guide to the Snakes of Virginia (Virginia Department of Game and Inland Fisheries, Wildlife Diversity Division, Special Publication No. 2.1)
Rock Climbing Virginia, West Virginia, and

Maryland (Regional Rock Climbing Series) Work in Colonial America (Colonial America) Four Centuries of Quilts: The Colonial Williamsburg Collection (Colonial Williamsburg Foundation) 30th Battalion Virginia Sharpshooters (The Virginia Regimental Histories Series) National Audubon Society Field Guide to the Mid-Atlantic States: New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland, Delaware, West Virginia, Virginia Dishing Up™ New Jersey: 150 Recipes from the Garden State Dishing Up™ Maryland: 150 Recipes from the Alleghenies to the Chesapeake Bay Dishing Up™ Minnesota: 150 Recipes from the Land of 10,000 Lakes The Nourishing Traditions Cookbook for Children: Teaching Children to Cook the Nourishing Traditions Way Cultural Traditions in Iran (Cultural Traditions in My World)

Dmca